Fees To Remain At Same Level, Harshman Declares

Registration fees at the University will remain at the present level during 1953-54 according to Dr. Ralph G. Harshman, dean of administration.

However, increases in certain laboratory fees and some new laboratory fees will be levied. The extent of these has not been decided.

A change in the activity fee also is being contemplated. The Activity Fees Committee has been meeting weekly since the beginning of the semester but has reached no definite conclusion.

Registration charges for all state-supported colleges and universities in Ohio are regulated by an Inter-University Council. Council membership includes Kent State University, Bowling Green State University, Miami University, Ohio University, Ohio State University, and Central College.

All registration fees at the above institutions are the same with the exception of professional schools in some of the universities and Ohio State where out-of-state fees differ slightly.

Collection Of Photos Now On Exhibition In Fine Arts Bldg.

A collection of 60 photographs from the 1951 edition of the "News Pictures of the Year" is now being exhibited in the Fine Arts Gallery by Kappa Alpha Mu, national recognition society in photo-journalism.

Sports, news, and human interest photos are featured in this selection which is jointly sponsored by the Encyclopedia Britannica, Book of the Year and the University of Missouri.

The photographs are largely from pictorial magazines. First place in the portfolio division was taken by Alfred Eisenstaedt, Life photographer. His picture, titled "Michigan Loses to Army" shows a member of the Michigan band beating his drum furiously while cheering for his team.

In the sequence division, illustrated magazine photographer, Erick Auerbach contrasted city life with his pictures titled, "East End-West End."

News winner, Don Ultang of the Des Moines, Ia., Register, named his picture of the western floods, the "Big Ditch," superior and several excellent ratings.

BG Dorm Dietician Is Elected To ADA

Loyal Horten, dietician for Williams Hall, recently was elected to membership in the American Dietetic Association. Mr. Horten is the eleventh man to join the organization which has a female membership of 10,000.

Election to membership is based on experience and academic background or a five year internship with three years in the field under approved dietetic members.

Pep Band Planned

Booster Club is seeking students for an all-campus Pep Band.

The band will play at all home basketball games and will be provided with reserved seats, announced David Day, publicity chairman of the Boosters Club. He says that the band will be divided into two groups, alternating every other game.

Boosters Club would like to have representation from each sorority, fraternity, and independent dorm.

Air Force Group Greatly Increased Above Last Year

The Air Force ROTC unit on campus has almost doubled in size this year, and now has a total enrollment of 358 cadets, according to Colonel Luther M. Bivens, professor of Air Science and Tactics. This enrollment is divided into 190 in Air Science 1, 123 in AS 2, 17 in AS 3, and 28 in AS 4.

Early this fall, the cadets held a common hour each Friday in the area east of Fraternity Row. At this time the cadet officers directed the cadets in various types of military drills and reviews.

In the classroom the cadets study Air Force Administration and Logistics. This study program is designed to produce administrative officers for the Air Force. The cadets may take pilot training after graduation if they desire and are physically qualified.

Throughout the year, the unit sponsors a rifle team and the Arnold Air Society, an honorary for selected advance students. Early in the second semester the Air Force ROTC and the Army ROTC co-sponsor the Annual Military Ball.

Officers and enlisted men stationed with this unit are: Colonel Luther M. Bivens, Major James R. Cables, Captain W. L. Wood, Jr., Captain Kent Maynard, Lieutenant A. D. Joseph, Jr., Master Sergeants Clinton R. Shipley and Robert D. Troutman, Technical Sergeants Royal O. Kimbell and Charles P. Jones, and Staff Sergeant Abraham J. Metrie.

BGSU Plays Host To Drama Clinic Over Week End

Giving an acting demonstration to high school drama students above are Robert Smith and Janine Vesceilus. The demonstration was part of a program for the Northwestern Ohio High School Drama Clinic which was held here Saturday.

Dungarees were in order for approximately 100 high school students attending the Annual High School Drama Clinic of Northwestern Ohio. The workshop program was held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the University's Gate Theatre Saturday. Dungaree-clad students built and painted scenery, solved lighting and sound problems, and analyzed make up and costuming. They also discussed rehearsal problems, cast selection, and floor planning.

The annual clinic is sponsored by the Community Drama Service. High schools in 24 counties of northwestern Ohio sent representatives this year.

Director of the clinic was Harold B. Obee, assistant professor of speech. John H. Hepler, F. Lee Miesle, Robert D. Richey and Dr. Elden T. Smith of the speech department faculty were assistant directors.

One-Act Play Ready Tonight For Creditors

"Trifles," a one-act play directed by June Emery, will be presented tonight at 9 p.m. before the Toledo Association of Credit Men at the Gate Theater.

The play will follow a dinner at the University Commons. The Treble Clef and a speech by "Vic" Eggerding, president of the National Association of Credit Men, will provide entertainment for the group before the play.

The cast includes: Betty Idle as Mrs. Hale; Carolyn Knepper as Mrs. Peters; Gary Wilson as Mr. Hale; Douglas Dickson as Mr. Peters; and Jack Chapin as the county attorney. The plot involves the solution of a murder.

Dr. Elden T. Smith, chairman of the speech department, said that the play may be presented to the public at a later date.

Sally Gearhart is assisting Miss Emery as director. Miss Emery is a member of the directing class.

Reaction Of Rats Now Being Studied By Psychologists

Reactions of 160 rats are being studied to determine their learning ability under various conditions in a study being conducted by Dr. Mylen E. Fitzwater and Dr. Cecil M. Freeburne of the psychology department.

Various time delays between the occurrence of a visual choice between two doors—one offering reinforcement (food) and the other non-reinforcement (no food), are being utilized in the experiment.

Each rat is used for six weeks. They are trained during the first week and in the following five weeks complete approximately 250 trial runs. Darrell Fero and Hillard Hall, laboratory assistants, are aiding in the experiment.

Dr. Freeburne said that the project is expected to be completed by the end of the 1953 summer session.

Bookstore Has 'Most Everything'

"If you want it—they've got it." That can be well applied to the university book store when it comes to buying anything from classroom supplies to stuffed animals.

Occupying the center area of the ground floor of the administration building, this distributing center for university students is doing a well-varied business. The major part of the revenue is taken in at the beginning of each semester when students are purchasing texts and writing materials, and this is done on practically a carload scale.

The store itself has increased its size three times since it was located in the old library of the Ad. Building. Since that time, it has occupied its present space, and plans to open a regular center when the student union is built.

Manager of the bookstore, and also university postmaster, is Paul Shephard, who is assisted by four full-time employees who take orders from the students. Mr. Shephard takes charge of ordering the supplies and texts needed, and also keeps contact with the companies who manufacture the camp-

Previous to the Great Lakes Tournament the four had been named to the Buckeye first team following the Buckeye Field Hockey Association Tournament held

Religious Emphasis Week, scheduled to be held Dec. 6 through 12, has been cancelled by its steering committee because there "was not sufficient time to plan a week of such varied and complex program activity."

The cancellation came in a letter sent to the University Executive Committee by the REW committee, composed of all campus religious groups. Although plans for the Week have been set up since last spring, committees were not chosen until Sept. 15.

Because of lack of planning time, the REW committee felt that the Week would be misrepresented to students and to speakers, which are the main part of the annual program.

The student members of the steering committee maintained that they would continue cooperative planning toward such a week next year."

Waitress Service To Be Continued By Home Ec Club

Waitress service, sponsored by Home Economics Club, will be continued, according to Elaine Taylor, chairman of the service. This was decided at a meeting of the club, Nov. 12.

Any campus organization desiring waitress service should call Miss Taylor (7921) at least a week in advance, telling her the time, place, number of women needed, and the type of work expected of them. The club serves banquets, teas, or refreshments for smaller groups. Money from this service, which is 50 cents an hour for each woman, goes into the club treasury.

At the Home Economics Club meeting Betty Bellaire, Rosalyn Elliott, Marilyn Sweet, and Mary Osborn told about conventions they had attended as representatives of Home Economics Club.

Bowling Green Site For Ohio Science Day

North Western Ohio District Science Day, sponsored by the Ohio Academy of Science, will be held April 11, 1953, at Bowling Green State University, according to Dr. Robert E. McKay of the physics department.

PENPOINTS

In Our Opinion

The Beneficial Side

Life is divided into material and immaterial. These are sub-divided into harmful and beneficial and may be proportioned any way that the individual feels they should at any time.

Many persons become disheartened and feel that "the odds," mentioned above, are stacked against them most of the time. They are the ones who "know" that success is too far away, man is always stumbling, and that war is inevitable, etc.

This is Thanksgiving. It is the time to look into the beneficial side of the ledger and give thanks. Even if our material gains are small, our hopes and ideas have no bounds. We all were given what we began with, so it's our duty to return our thanks, especially during this bountiful season.

Sociology Colleagues Study Delinquency; Working On Scale

More research on the "K.D. Proneness Scale" of Dr. William Kvaraceus, professor of Education at Boston University, which predicated the proneness of youngsters toward delinquency is being undertaken by Dr. Joseph K. Balogh, associate professor of Sociology, and Charles J. Ramage, instructor of sociology.

"The scale has been proven very reliable and valid, but we feel that although it is good, more research should be done in regard to the prediction factor; therefore we are thinking in terms of more statistical refinements concerning conclusions and predictions, Dr. Balogh said.

He stated that they planned to do this in one way by considering each age group separately instead of together as Dr. Kvaraceus did. They are also supplementing the facts that are received from the scale by having the person tested fill out a special data sheet, which Dr. Balogh and Mr. Ramage have devised. It asks questions about the economic status of the tested person's family, how many brothers or sisters he has, if he has committed a crime and if he did it alone or with someone else, and does he attend school regularly.

In this study Dr. Balogh and Mr. Ramage are using 1,800 boys from the ages 12 through 17. Each age group is broken into three categories, those who are already in public institutions because they have committed a crime, those who are attending public school, and those who are in the high morale group, such as student leaders and academic leaders. In this project they are using boys from all over Ohio and Michigan, not just one special group.

Dr. Balogh stated that it will be at least a year and a half before the study is completed. They plan to use IBM cards to facilitate the coding of the data. They are considering having some graduate assistants help give the tests and correlate the data.

One hundred thirty-nine telephone numbers are listed under Bowling Green State University in the telephone directory.

Home Ec Chairman Named To State In Nutrition Field

Miss Laura E. Heston, chairman of the home economics department, has been named as one of four members of the Abstract Committee of the Ohio Nutritive Committee. The Abstract Committee prepares and sends to members of the Nutrition Committee and other interested people in the state, abstracts of recent literature pertaining to the nutrition field.

Miss Heston recently attended a meeting of the committee in Columbus.

The Ohio Nutritive Committee, which is composed of about 25 persons, considers and works out nutrition problems of the state Miss Heston said.

Miss Heston is one of two northwestern Ohio representatives to the Ohio Nutrition Committee. The other representative from northwestern Ohio is Mrs. Gladys Spear, Director of Nutritive Service, Toledo Chapter of American Red Cross.

While in Columbus, Miss Heston also attended a meeting of the Ohio Valley Chapter of the Institute of Food Technologists of which she is a member.

One of our more avid contributors left us this somewhat cynical holiday note recently: "Thanksgiving—when women are thankful for men, and men are preparing to temporarily break up so that they won't have to buy Christmas presents."

Eva Marie Saint, who was graduated from Bowling Green in '46 and since has appeared as Mary Horton on radio's "Young Dr. Malone" and on T-V's "One Man's Family," compliments a Bowling Green department chairman in an interview in the December issue of Radio T-V Mirror.

The talented gal tells how she changed from teaching to dramatics and how Dr. Elden T. Smith helped her further her career by offering an extensive amount of objective information about the theatre. The article also includes a full-page color picture of the former BG student.

A former education student here informs us of an incident that happened to her friend. Her friend, a kindergarten teacher, smiled pleasantly at a gentleman opposite her on the streetcar recently.

He didn't respond. Realizing her error, she said aloud, "Oh please excuse me. I mistook you for the father of two of my children."

She got out at the next corner.

Austrian lads were hiking Shades of the Tyrolers: Two through the Alps with their mother one day. After many hours of gruelling climbing, they came to a very sharp precipice. One of the small boys turned and pushed the woman off.

Turning to his brother, he said, "Look Hans, no Ma!"

Referendum

The following referendum has been signed by 50 members of the senior class. It must appear in two issues of the B-G News before being voted upon by the senior class.

WHEREAS, we the undersigned, being members of the Senior Class (student body) of Bowling Green State University, are vitally concerned that the Student Government Association on this campus function properly,

WHEREAS, a vacancy has occurred in the office of the Senate Representative from the Senior Class because of the resignation of the representative elected by the Senior Class last spring,

WHEREAS, the Student Senate has acted to fill the vacancy in a manner that we feel is not granted to that Senate by the Constitution of the Student Government Association,

WHEREAS, we feel that the action of Student Senate sets an undesirable precedent in student government in that the right of the Senior Class, or any other class, to elect and choose their own representative is being deprived said Senior Class,

WHEREAS, we feel that a Senior Class election should be held at the earliest possible moment to fill the Senior Class vacancy in representation on the Student Senate,

WE, THEREFORE, ask that a referendum be held as provided for in Article VII of the Constitution upon the above stated action of the Student Senate.

Student Court

Three students received verdicts of guilty, and two received verdicts of not guilty at a meeting of Student Court Nov. 19.

Warren Ransler was brought before the court with the charge of parking in an assigned area. He was found not guilty.

Frank Fusco was found not guilty to the charge of improper display of a decal.

Dale Lee, Bob Gwin, and William W. Meyer were each found guilty of parking in an assigned area. Lee and Gwin received fines of $1, since this was the first offense for each. Meyer was fined $2. It was his second offense.

Women Living In Windmill; Houses Four Speech Students

For the first time in its history the University windmill now boasts women tenants.

Enjoying the novel atmosphere of the remodelled windmill are three graduate speech students, Diana Root, Patricia Swineford, and Margaret Chandler.

Several changes have been made to make the windmill residence more comfortable. Partitions have been removed from the first floor to make room for a stove, refrigerator, and sink. Walnut paneling adds to the rustic atmosphere of the second and third floors. Built in bunks, drawers, and desks have been used to conserve on floor space.

Commenting on an additional aspect of the windmill's atmosphere, Miss Root mentioned the ducks that serenade outside their windows every morning, and the rubbish collection depot outside their front door. "The ladders between levels were an awful problem at first," she added, "but we've learned to ignore their steepness and we make good time on them now. Still, we try not to forget anything."

Although this is the first time the windmill has housed women, it has served as a dorm for male students since its construction in 1928. Rent for the building pays operating costs for the boiler in its basement, which heats the University courts.

The windmill is an authentic replica of one seen in Holland by the father-in-law of Mr. H. B. Urschel, who originally built and owned the windmill and the University court, as well as much of the surrounding land.

Originally the windmill was to supply power for an electric generator that would run a fountain in the center of Urschel Pond, but the project was never completed.

The windmill is still in working order, but the shaft is bolted down against windstorms and pranks. A few years ago a group of students released the shaft, then secured only by a chain, during a windstorm. The blades began to rotate so rapidly that the mill shook to its foundation. In the effort to stop the blades, one was broken and had to be replaced.

The windmill is owned and managed by Windmill Inc., a non-profit organization of the owners of the University courts.

BG Meets Hamline In Cage Opener

Depth, Experience, And Height Will Aid 27 Game Schedule

Coach Harold Anderson and some 21 hardwood proteges throw their hooks into the 1952 basketball season this Saturday against Hamline University in St. Paul.

Bowling Green will floor one of the strongest squads since the famous 1948 quintet. Depth experience, and height will be the combination that the Falcons are depending on

Creason Says Frosh Season Is Successful

The freshman football season has been completed, and the record of three wins and two losses posted by the young Falcons is not an exceptional one. However, the season was a success as far as Forrest Creason, freshman football coach, is concerned.

"The experience that was gained under pressure in the five games played will prove invaluable to the players when they move up to the varsity next year," he pointed out.

The main reason for freshman football is to introduce to the newcomers the system used by the Bowling Green varsity," he continued. "In this sense the season was also a success because 44 men were used throughout the season."

Coach Creason felt there were a number of players who should push returning men for varsity positions next year. A few that he mentioned are: James Bryan, James Fitzpatrick, Dan Zunk, Sam Epstein and Mel Mitchell, backfield men, and Terry Snyder, Bill Jarvis, Jack Hecker, Ben Rowe, and Joe Stanziale, linemen.

Bill Jarvis, Jack Hecker, Dale Duncan, Mel Hoover, Glenn Weber, Sam Epstein, Jim Nelson, Howard Eckert, Mel Mitchell, Dan Zunk, and Al Rowe.

Frosh Basketball Open Cage Practice

More than 70 freshmen basketball candidates prepared for the opening practice of the 1952 squad Nov. 3. With football season just completed, another dozen aspirants are expected to try out for the team coached by Dale Herbert.

This large group is now in the process of being cut to about 30 players. The final selection will be completed this week, the third of practice sessions. These Falcon yearlings face a 21-game schedule, 11 on the Bowling Green court.

An intrasquad scrimmage will precede the first varsity tilt at home Dec. 3.

Coach Herbert also announced that there is an opening for a freshman manager. Applicants should submit their names to him as soon as possible.

Women's Bowling Club

Ten teams are participating in the Women's Bowling Club which started its season Nov. 14.

In the first series Dauntless Dames won against Alpha Gamma Delta, and Alpha Phi defeated Kappa Delta. Phi Mu and Alley Cats won by forfeit from Chi Omega and Clinging Vines, respectively.

Outstanding bowling honors went to Patti Rader who rolled a high game of 167.

Points Awarded To 24 PE Women

Of the 44 women who participated in speedball, 24 will receive 50 points towards Women's Recreational Association membership credit.

The following girls qualified: Jane Abbey, Jean Barnes, Eleanor Carlson, Joan Case, Judy Dible, Constance Ellis, Joyce Fast, Diane Forrer, Natalie Hessler, Barbara Jisa, Karol Krohne, Jo Libbee, Kathryn Miley, Janice Oberacker, Julia Petrich, Diane Prentice, Lois Reichert, Ann Spieldenner, Martha Terman, Phyllis Vrendenburgh, Ruth White, Eve Williams, and Connie Wood.

The final team standings are:

Team	Won	Lost	Tied
Freshman	2	4	1
Juniors	2	4	1
Seniors	0	3	0

The outstanding scorers for the season were: Diane Prentice, sophomore; Ann Spieldenner, sophomore; Jean Barnes, freshman; and Audrey Simonie, freshman.

Ping Pong Playoffs Cut Field Of 57

Friday, Nov. 21, was an important day for aspirants for the ping pong championship crown. It marked the second phase of the playoffs. 57 men have their sights on the crown but that number has dwindled now as a result of the first playoffs which began Nov. 17.

In the first tilt Robert Bailes defeated Don Britton. Dan Mucigrosso dumped Charles Kisselle and Dan Zunk won his match with W. Tobey when Tobey forfeited.

else in the country."

The starting lineup for the opening battle will probably be Gerber at center, Lou Drago and John "Bucky" Slesinger at guards, and Al Bianchi and George Reis at the forward slots. Anderson is working more height into the starters by putting Slesinger, who is 6'5", in the guard position.

Substitutes that will see quite a bit of action will be Boo Ellis, Don Robinson, Bill Rogers, and Gene Ray. Bill Sharon will probably be playing under Gerber at the center post.

Coach Anderson summed up the spirit of the team when he said that "they have desire and determination and on any given night they would be able to beat any team in the country."

Phi Delts Win Two Contests

Phi Delta Theta added two more wins to its volleyball record Wednesday, including one on a forfeit, to boost its rating in League I play.

Theta Chi and Pi Kappa Alpha also won single contests in the same league.

The first game of the evening was between Sigma Nu and Theta Chi. The Theta Chi team, composed of Phil Bremser, Allen Luikart, Charles Strickler, James Schultz, Mel Ramsdell, and Eugene Winters, defeated Sigma Nu two games in a row.

In the first game, the score was 15-6, and in the second the winners racked up 15 digits to Sigma Nu's 8. The Sigma Nu squad was made up of seven men: Jack Padon, Jay England, Jim Rea, Herb Luyk, Jim Lindsay, Jim Haman,

Nation's Top Teams On Falcon Schedule

Members of this year's basketball team have their work cut out for them. Athletic Director Harold Anderson has scheduled some of the nation's best teams to meet the Falcons.

Among the teams scheduled are Hamline, Western Kentucky, and Loyola of Chicago. The latter two are looking ahead for the chance of representing the Mid-West in the National Invitational Tournament and the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournaments' as is Bowling Green.

Also with the same idea is Dayton. The Flyers, who defeated the Orange and Brown last year by one point, expect to be very strong again this season. Dayton went to the finals of the NIT last year before being defeated by La Salle. They also represented the Mid-West in the NCAA tournament in Chicago.

Although Dayton lost four of their starting five by graduation, including All-American Don Meincke, they expect to have quite a bit of height, but will lack experience.

Also on the Falcon schedule is powerful Duquesne.

and John Lusky.

Phi Delta Theta was the second team to down Sigma Nu that evening when it won two out of three games. Sigma Nu won the first game 15-7 and lost the next two in a row, 15-11 and 15-7.

The Phi Delt squad had the following men on its roster for that game: Jim Ladd, Don Baginski, Martin Keipp, David Day, William Bradshaw, Kermit Knowles, Joseph Dallas, and Richard Moss.

Kappa Sigma forfeited both of its tilts to Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Delta Theta due to lack of players.

Here is a follow-up for last week's story about the Harvard Crimson's trick on the Daily Princeton. Remember that the Harvard staff stole the real paper from the local plant and published two bogus issues? The job of satirizing was done cleverly and was mentioned, not only by the B-G News, but in the New York Times! The Times said the paper was "duplicated perfectly" and "fooled regular newsboys."
